

Travellers invited on worldwide pub crawl

A company has announced an international tour that it describes as the world's biggest pub crawl.

A departure date of March 24th 2008 has been set for a round-the-world pub crawl that will take in 11 destinations.

The tour, organised by Australian company the Thirsty Swagman, will leave from London and last 27 days.

It will travel through Europe, visiting Munich, Prague and Dusseldorf among others.

The drinking party will then head to Phuket in Thailand before hitting Auckland and Queenstown in New Zealand, then jetting off to Honolulu before wrapping the tour up in Cancun.

Throughout the course of the mammoth pub crawl more than 60 of the world's best drinking establishments will be visited.

Kenneth Hart, founder of the Thirsty Swagman, said: "This tour is the ultimate adventure to the finest nightlife destinations on earth, without any boring sightseeing or early wakeups.

"Those who embark on this journey will have a story to tell for life. Nothing even close to this has ever been done before, anywhere or anytime."
